Sora Northeast Development receives 2015 Readers Choice Award for Building, Development and Construction

Sewell NJ, August, 2015 - The 2015 Southern New Jersey Business People (SNJBP) Readers Choice Awards for Building, Development and Construction were announced recently by the publication. Sora Northeast Development LLC, (SORA NE) is featured as one of the winners with the criteria for the award being community involvement, branding, visibility and impact on the region. Sora Northeast was also named by SNJBP earlier this year for the Commercial Real Estate designation.

As developers, redevelopers and third-party development managers, the Sora NE team facilitates the planning, design, financing and construction of residential, retail, commercial and mixed-use projects, working closely with State, County, Municipal and private entities.

Led by Principal Greg Filipek, Sora Northeast was recently designated as master redeveloper for the redevelopment of the northern end of Woodbury NJ, with the future of its downtown plans also being discussed.

Woodbury's Mayor Bill Volk stated, "In the past two years the City has seen enormous growth with 27 new businesses joining us and over $20 million dollars in investments made in the City. With Sora Northeast on board as master redeveloper, the north end of town will broaden our redevelopment efforts as Woodbury becomes a great South Jersey destination for business."

This project is another example of Sora Northeast investing in a public-private partnership with a municipality. Sora's success in the design of the master development of the Rowan Boulevard project in Glassboro NJ is an example of revitalizing a downtown with private investment as a public-private-public partnership to create a walkable, livable downtown. Rowan Boulevard now connects the Glassboro downtown with Rowan University
